Our Daily Bread

Alex. N. Washburn
We Resume Test
Runs on Our Own
Color Separations

After an intermission of nearly six months The Star on Thursday is resuming work on the making of color-printing separation negatives. If successful we should get a new four-color production into the paper in about a week.

What's involved in this new series of experiments is a switch in film material. Most color transparencies require a color-correction mask—a black-and-white copy of the transparency which is fastened to the latter and the package put in the big Berkeley separator before projecting the image for enlargement.

In four-color work you have to make four separately enlarged negatives of the same subject. These "separation negatives" are in black and white, completely without color. But each is designated for reproduction of a certain color. Four units of the press are loaded with four different colors, each negative is exposed onto a separate plate, put in its proper unit of the press—and then the press applies the color inks one over the other as the paper passes through the press.

That is to say, there are four actual pictures, but border holes are punched in a non-printing area of the negative so when they engage registration pins the four different pictures look like one. All color printing follows this pattern, like the overlay of sheets and blankets on a bed.

The same trick—making four pictures look like one—is employed by all color TV receivers. If the job gets away from you on a newspaper press you are out of "register," one of the colors slurs across the black outline—and you have to strip the printing back to the offending plate and then line up the following color plates before proceeding with the run. The effect is recognizable at once in printing.

But the same thing can happen with your TV set. At first you think the picture is merely out of focus. But a sharp eye may finally tell you one of the colors is "out of register"—and you call your service man to realign the machine.

The Star, with a brand new color press, has no trouble with color registration—our trouble has been with the mask material we have been using on the Berkeley separator. About three-fourths of our color runs were either good or acceptable—but then the fourth would turn out badly.

Finally we got our supplier, Jungkind Photo-Graphic, Little Rock, to send its vice-president, Garland Bosley, to the Berkeley factory in New York, carrying with him all our materials and electrical measurements on an unsatisfactory job—and Bosley reported the whole country was having trouble with Eastman's Tri-Mask film. It was not proving consistent, apparently some change taking place in its three-decker performance from one press run to another.

So we, like the rest of the color printers, are switching to Eastman's Silver Mask film. Different masking film, different developing process—and even different filters on the Berkeley separator.

Bosley is on his way, to be met here by a Berkeley trouble-shooter from its Dallas office, and we'll begin work in the process darkroom Thursday.

We feel we've had some success with color—but three out of four isn't good enough. If you're going to do difficult work for your advertisers and for other newspapers, three out of four isn't good enough—you have to bat 100 per cent.

Group Wants Assessments Equalized

An estimated 65 concerned citizens met Tuesday night at Hope City Hall to discuss the reported financial plight of the local school system and discussed ways and means to possibly relieve the condition.

When it was over it was clearly evident that the majority of those in attendance favored more equitable assessments in lieu of a proposed 10 mill tax increase to be voted on March 9. Clyde Fouse was selected to head a committee to work out some way to help the schools.

Clifford Franks opened the meeting and briefly discussed its purpose, the school financial condition and the proposed mill increase.

An open discussion followed, pertaining mainly to the tax increase and equalization of assessments. It was very clear that those present wanted a complete revision of the present assessment system to make it more fair and equitable.

Of real concern to many were reports from their children that schools were going to close in seven months unless the tax was passed or money raised to pay teachers for a full term. Questioned about this a member of the school board present told the group that so far as he knew

Filibuster on Agenda for Congress

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returned to work today after a five-day recess, short on business and long on talk.

For the Senate, the agenda read filibuster, as it has since the 92nd Congress convened. Neither Senate nor House has any significant legislation ready for action. The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled a hearing today on increasing the national debt ceiling from $395 billion to $435 billion. That may be the first major measure to reach the floor.

The Senate remains snarled in the dispute over efforts to make ending filibusters easier. Foes of the rules change used the filibuster itself to block a change endorsed by a Senate majority, and as a result there has been marathon talk for nearly three weeks.

The first test of voting strength in the rules battle comes Thursday, with a roll call on a petition to cut off the filibuster led by Southern conservatives.

Life of a Plumber Is Not Easy and Remarks He Hears Are Worse

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a plumber gets tired of hearing:

"What took you so long to get here, Joe? Did your chauffeur have to stop and fix a flat tire?"

"All you did was jiggle the handle on the toilet, and it started working again. You expect me to pay you $30 for that?"

"I remember when all you had for lunch, Joe, was a liver-wurst sandwich and a raw onion. Now I suppose you have your lunches catered on the job."

"In the old days he used to do all the work himself. Now each of his three helpers has a helper."

"What took you so long, Joe? Did you stop off for a round of golf or two?"

"I hear your mother wanted you to be a doctor or a lawyer or a dentist, Joe. But today those guys live like paupers compared to plumbers, don't they?"

Use Tax Proposal Gets Reprieve as Issue Is Returned to Committee

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers' proposal to repeal use tax exemptions won a reprieve Tuesday when the Arkansas House voted to allow committee reconsideration of an adverse recommendation on the bill.

The House action sent the bill back to the Revenue and Taxation Committee, which had narrowly voted Monday to give the bill a "do not pass" recommendation, an action which normally kills a measure.

The bill is part of Bumpers' $26 million tax package. It would repeal the exemption granted utilities and transportation companies.

Rep. L. L. Bryan of Russellville, who had made the "do not pass" motion in committee, asked the House Tuesday to recommit the bill to Revenue and Taxation. He said he had made his motion because he feared that he would be unable to obtain consideration of amendments he wants to write into the bill.

Bryan said his amendments were now prepared so they can be considered in committee. The representative said one of his amendments would exempt from the 3 per cent tax projects that have already been approved by the state Public Service Commission and for which contracts have been let.

The other amendment Bryan proposes would phase out the exemption over a three-year period by levying 1 per cent of the tax in the next fiscal year and adding 1 more per cent in each of the two following years. Bumpers' bill would phase out the exemption over a two-year period, with 2 per cent to be paid in the next fiscal year and the entire 3 per cent being imposed in the following year.

In other legislative action Tuesday, the Senate passed and sent to Bumpers a bill that would permit teachers employed at private nonprofit schools, including segregated private academies, to participate in the state Teacher Retirement System.

The vote was 19-9, one more favorable vote than needed for passage. The bill, authored by Rep. J. B. Smith of Marianna, initially was defeated 16-9, but was approved when Sen. John F. Bearden Jr. of Leachville asked for reconsideration.

Sen. Bob Douglas of Texarkana said the bill would deprive public schools of one of their advantages in competing with private schools for the services of qualified teachers.

The House defeated 31-60 an amendment offered by Rep. W. H. Thompson of Marked Tree to the administration bill that would extend the 3 per cent state sales tax to repair services.

Thompson's amendment would have applied the sales

Wage-Price Freeze Is Possibility

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Free prices and wages are the heart of our economic system. We should not stop them from working even to cure an inflationary fever."

Thus, in his annual economic report to Congress, President Nixon expressed his strongest rejection to date of wage and price controls as a way to combat inflation.

Now, a little more than two weeks later, Nixon is reported to be seriously considering clamping a wage and price freeze on the construction industry.

Even a temporary freeze would represent a dramatic turnaround in Nixon's thinking. When Congress granted him the power to impose temporary wage and price controls last year, Nixon said it was power he didn't want and wouldn't use.

The law permits the President to set temporary maximums on wages, prices and rents at any levels not below those of May 25, 1970.

Nixon held out the possibility of government intervention in that economic message, and in a December speech before the National Association of Manu-

Debt Limit Increase Debated

By EDMUND L. BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration asked Congress today for a $40 billion increase in the limit on the national debt, to $435 billion. It would be the biggest single hike in the debt ceiling since World War II.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, the only Democrat in President Nixon's Cabinet, brought the request to the House Ways and Means Committee, which is dominated by Democrats eager for another chance to criticize the administration's economic policy.

Connally asked for the big increase on the ground that deficits already are exceeding predictions and also that it would be wise to provide a debt limit that would hold up through fiscal year 1972, which ends June 30, 1972.

While Congress never fails to provide enough borrowing authority to keep the government operating normally, it appeared unlikely that the committee

Bill Would Change Auto License Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Revenue Commissioner A. B. "Bud" Hervey Jr. said Tuesday that a bill to require all automobiles to be licensed between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15 of each year would cost the state at least $600,000 annually.

Hervey also said the bill would "be almost impossible to administer." He said that $374,000 would be needed to hire additional employees and pay for additional office space during the licensing period and a requirement in the bill for an "annual license plate" would cost another $230,000 a year.

The bill was approved by the House Monday and is now pending in the Senate Roads and Highways Committee. The bill was introduced Feb. 10 by Reps. James L. Linder of West Helena, Cecil L. Alexander of Heber Springs, Boyce Alford of Pine Bluff and John E. Miller of Melbourne.

The Revenue Department implemented a staggered system of licensing automobiles in 1968.

Nation's Economy Not Responding to Nixon Expansion Policies

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy inched ahead sluggishly last month, still not responding to President Nixon's ambitious expansion policies, a new government report shows.

Industrial production, one of the first significant economic indicators reported this year, advanced by seven-tenths of 1 per cent in January, the Federal Reserve Board said Tuesday.

At any other time, the gain might have been significant. But, the board said, factory output is still catching up from the knockout blow of last fall's General Motors' strike.

Excluding the unseasonably high 18 per cent increase in auto production, output of the nation's factories showed continuing slack, with declines in production of television sets and other appliances, industrial, commercial and defense equipment and commercial aircraft.

A spokesman for Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said the production index for January "is a good figure. It doesn't set the world on fire, but it's a good steady figure."

He said the most encouraging signs are the auto production snapback and a stepup in steel output, reflecting industry stockpiling in anticipation of a strike later this year.

"Hopefully, these will spread into other areas," he said.

The administration is looking for a dramatic jump in output in March and April to realize its prediction of an upturn in the economy.

After pursuing tight fiscal and monetary policies in fighting inflation last year, Nixon has ordered heavier federal spending, combined with easier money policies from the Federal Reserve, to expand the economy this year.

His primary goal now is to tackle unemployment, currently at 6 per cent. Nixon has predicted

New Georgia Holidays

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The state Senate has sent to its Rules Committee a resolution making the birthdays of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Richard B. Russell state holidays.

Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, a Negro and sponsor of the resolution, protested that sending the bill back to committee would kill it.

Johnson originally proposed only that King's birthday be made a holiday. He changed it to include the late U.S. senator in hopes of enhancing chances of approval.

The Senate Judiciary Committee had given the resolution a favorable vote.

Wholesale Price Rise Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government revised today January's whopping wholesale price index increase slightly upward to seven-tenths of one per cent, the steepest rise in a year.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics previously had announced a preliminary estimate of a six-tenths of one per cent increase.

Although a 1.7 per cent increase in wholesale farm prices accounted for most of the total rise, the upward revision was due to a four-tenths of one per cent final increase in industrial goods, revised upward from a three-tenths of one per cent preliminary estimate.

Despite the sharp monthly jump, the price index stood at only 2.3 per cent above a year earlier for the smallest year-to-year increase since June 1968 except for an identical advance for December.

The BLS said that when seasonal factors were taken into account the January increase was five-tenths of one per cent, compared with four-tenths of one per cent in the preliminary estimate.

The sources said U.S. reconnaissance planes have been flying 25 to 40 missions per day over South and North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. But they would not say how many are flying over the north daily.

The additional flight over North Vietnam was added about the time U.S. and South Vietnamese troops started massing in the northwest corner of South Vietnam for the South Vietnamese push into Laos on Feb. 8.

"We just wanted to take a good hard look and see if there was any increase in their logistics effort or whether they were moving any MIGs southward," said one source. "We wanted to make sure our information was more up to date all the time. We wanted to reduce the time between the flights."

"On their logistics, we don't see any big significant change. They haven't moved any MIGs southward. They're still in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas."

Enemy in Attack on Americans

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked an American position in rocky hills northeast of Khe Sanh and rain and low clouds today prevented U.S. helicopters from flying in reinforcements.

At last report at dusk, the American troops were still holding out after calling in artillery close to their own positions to keep back a North Vietnamese force of 200 or more surrounding the U.S. position.

There was no indication whether the main North Vietnamese force was still surrounding the position or whether it had faded in the face of artillery and air strikes into rocky hillsides and thick jungle undergrowth in terrain broken by many ravines, streams and rapids.

An Army spokesman at Quang Tri said contact had broken off at midnight, but Air Force spokesmen said sporadic contact continued after that. The Air Force spokesmen said bombing missions were flown throughout the day in support of the position.

First reports said more than a half dozen U.S. troops had been wounded.

The position of attack is located near the Rockpile, half a mile southeast of an artillery base named Scotch and 10 miles northeast of the Khe Sanh combat base. The American troops are part of 9,000 U.S. force acting as a blocking force for the South Vietnamese operation in neighboring Laos.

Two earlier attacks on U.S. positions around Scotch killed six Americans and wounded seven.

An Army UH1 helicopter on a supply mission a mile southwest of the Rockpile was shot down and crash-landed, but the crew escaped.

Military sources said the United States has stepped up reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam slightly but no significant enemy supply movement southward has been detected.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command announced attacks on anti-aircraft missile—SAM—sites inside North Vietnam for the third successive day with unknown results.

Two U.S. Navy fighter-bombers fired four Shrike missiles Tuesday at two North Vietnamese positions 119 miles north of the demilitarized zone after they threatened an unarmed reconnaissance plane, the command said.

Other sources said one additional reconnaissance flight per day is being flown over North Vietnam. While this is a small number, it was pointed out that reconnaissance jets can cover huge areas on one photo-taking run.

PX Probe Reveals Gifts and Kickbacks

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were called today to testify about charges a syndicate of American businessmen used kickbacks and lavish gifts to corrupt U.S. officials and capture a share of the millions spent by GIs in service clubs.

Exploiting the U.S. troop buildup in South Vietnam, interlocking groups of Americans established a near-monopoly in slot-machine sales and influenced purchase of whisky, beer, cigarettes and other goods, investigators contend.

The allegations are being investigated in hearings opening today before the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

As senators prepared to open the hearings, the Air Force announced it will court-martial two majors and 12 sergeants on charges they mishandled funds belonging to Air Force clubs in Thailand.

Over the weekend, the Army announced it was removing more than 1,700 slot machines from its clubs in Vietnam on the grounds their presence was not practical in a war zone.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., a subcommittee member, said the hearings will include testimony that efforts were made in Vietnam to artificially influence demand statistics for certain beers and liquors being offered for sale to the PX system.

He said slot machines appear to be the root of corruption in all the subcommittee's investigations of funds generated solely by soldiers' spending.

The hearings are a sequel to others in which the subcommittee traced black-market currency transactions through a large New York City bank to banks in the sheldom of Dubai, a reputed gold-smuggling center in the Middle East.

Earlier hearings saw several senior Army sergeants invoke the 5th Amendment to avoid answering senators' questions about their activities.

The questions then concerned alleged thefts from slot machines, acceptance of kickbacks from businessmen dealing with service clubs in Germany and South Vietnam and the sergeants' creation of a sales firm, allegedly to sell products to clubs they ran.

Discusses Airport

GARY JACKSON

Gary Jackson, Manager of the Texarkana Municipal Airport, was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. Kiwanian Jim McKenzie arranged the program and introduced Don Ruggles, formerly of Hope, now of Texarkana and a member of the Texarkana Airport Authority Board, who introduced the guest speaker.

Mr. Jackson stated that airport management is a constant challenge due to the type of industry it is. Adequate airport facilities increase the economic development of any community. New industries are attracted. Communities without adequate airport facilities are somewhat limited in their potential.

Mr. Jackson reviewed something of the history of Texarkana Municipal Airport. It was established in 1926, serving only a very few aircraft. In 1958 the Airport Authority was established, consisting of six members, three from each side of the city, appointed by the mayors of the Arkansas and Texas sides of the city. In 1960 the new terminal building was erected. In 1969-70 the new 6,600 foot runway was completed. The airport now handles some 700 aircraft weekly.

Mr. Jackson pointed out some work on a film next month.

Mortgage Rate Cut on Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today lowered the maximum allowable interest rate on government-backed mortgages to 7 per cent in a further move to bolster the reviving housing market.

The cut is the third in the past three months and brings the mortgage interest rate back down to 1968 levels. It peaked at 8½ per cent last year on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration. An additional one-half of one per cent insurance fee is tacked on to FHA mortgages.

"Prospective home buyers will be able to make plans based on a reduced cost of mortgage money, and this should provide new impetus to the already buoyant homebuilding outlook," Housing Secretary George Romney said.

He noted the new interest ceiling "may be just a little ahead of current conditions in the corporate bond markets."

"But with the mortgage lending institutions becoming increasingly flush with funds, it will not be long before the new ceiling is fully validated."

The secretary estimated that monthly payments on a typical FHA-insured home will be $20-$25 less under the 7 per cent rate than under the 8½ per cent one prevailing last year.

The rate is effective today. But Romney urged lenders to rewrite existing mortgage commitments to reflect the new, lower rate.

Mild temperatures are expected to continue in Arkansas through Thursday.

Highs today were forecast in the upper 50s and low 60s north to low 70s south. Highs Thursday should be in the mid and upper 60s south to low 70s south.

Highs Tuesday ranged from 61 at Jonesboro to 75 at Texarkana.

Thunderstorms moved into Northwest Arkansas Tuesday evening and a severe thunderstorm warning was issued for Eastern Oklahoma and Crawford County in Arkansas. Small hail was reported at Fort Smith Tuesday night.

would grant the administration enough of a rise over the present $395 billion to take care of a 16-month period. Instead, Congress is likely to require the administration to come in for another fiscal accounting within six months to a year.

Connally said that when the present limit was set last June the deficit prediction was only $1.3 billion.

"In addition to estimating error, the business slowdown has contributed to a sharp fall in revenues of some $10 billion from the projections of last spring," he said.

"A combination of increases in such uncontrollable items as Social Security and interest payments and higher appropriations by the Congress account for a $7 billion increase in estimated expenditures."

The deficit for the present year ending June 30, has been estimated at figures ranging above $18 billion.

Connally told the committee apparently "the debt will rise to within $1 billion of the present $395 billion limit late this month, before temporarily dropping again."

In another month, he continued, the debt would be bumping against the limit persistently and the Treasury would have to draw down its cash balances to an inconveniently low level.

He submitted figures indicating that by June the debt would actually exceed the present limit.

Connally also reviewed a long-standing request of administrations, Republican and Democratic alike, for a lifting of the statutory ceiling on interest the government may pay on its long-term bonds.

The ceiling of 4½ per cent, Connally said, has made it impossible to sell any such bonds for six years. Accordingly, he

Bottle Club Organized in This Area

The Hempstead County Bottle Club met for its first organizational meeting February 15 in the Douglas Building with a very good attendance of collectors. Norma Hairr, Orene Martin, and Francis Moses displayed some old and unusual bottles for discussion. The Club elected the following officers for the year: President, Glenon Huckabee; Vice President, Norma Hairr; Treasurer, Wayne Bohanon; Secretary and Reporter, Francis Moses.

Membership dues were set at $2.50 per person and go on sale at the next meeting, March 2. A bottle a month will be given away as a door prize at each meeting.

The guest speaker was Floyd Jones, who travels over the United States buying and selling bottles. He gave a very informative talk about bottles. He told the members how to tell the difference in an old bottle and a new bottle, the age of bottles, their coloring, and how to purple your bottles. He also donated a very old grog amber bottle as the door prize for the next meeting.

He was invited back, along with another guest who is equally as informative, for the March 2 meeting.

The Club encourages all people interested in collecting to attend this meeting and get in on the valuable information about bottles. After the March 2 meeting, the Club will be having a SWAP Meet for members only. A SWAP Meet is identified as "SWAP My Junk For Yours".

Two members of the House Banking Committee in prepared testimony urged the Ways and Means Committee not to grant the request for an increase in the 4½ per cent interest ceiling. Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said the ceiling "has traditionally applied pressure on whatever administration was in power to hold down interest rates."

Bill Would Organize Liquor Dealers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs introduced a bill in the Arkansas Senate Tuesday to permit liquor dealers to band together to obtain a wholesaler's permit to buy directly from distilleries.

The measure, he said, would make repeal of the fair trade liquor law meaningless in Garland County, which he represents. Most other counties probably would be affected similarly.

Hurst also introduced a bill to bring about the classification and licensing of wastewater treatment plant supervisors. He said the step was necessary to clear the way for federal grants to aid water pollution control projects.

Sen. Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton introduced a bill to bring quarterhorse racing under regulation of the state Racing Commission. The Measure would not legalize parimutuel wagering on quarterhorse races.

Sen. Oscar Alagood of Little Rock introduced a measure to prohibit disability insurers from reducing benefit payments by reason of the fact that the insured draws benefits under other policies for the same disability.

Rep. Walter Day of Blytheville introduced a resolution by which the legislature could provide for the filing of a written copy of a legislative audit report.

The report would go to the governor.

The Legislative Joint Auditing Committee met last week and heard from Legislative Auditor Orvel M. Johnson a report alleging irregularities in the handling of Crittenden County funds.

However, the committee members' terms on the committee expired when the regular legislative session began and therefore the committee could not legally transmit the data to the governor. The resolution would have the data sent to Bumpers by the General Assembly.

Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott introduced a bill that would bar the construction or expansion of nursing home facilities except where the state Health Department had issued a certificate stating that such action was needed.

Reps. A. J. Troxell of Greenbrier and Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs introduced a bill to authorize the state Parks, Recreation and Travel Commission to accept as a state park the Wolley Hollow recreation center, including Lake Bennett, in Faulkner County. The area includes about 370 acres.

The bill would appropriate $45,000 to pay to the holder of the lease to the land.

Druggist Is Termed Sore Loser

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Guy Newcomb of Osceola, chairman of the state Racing Commission, said here Tuesday that David Morton of Little Rock was a "sore loser" and made allegations that horses at Oaklawn Park had been drugged because a contract with Morton's firm to conduct drug tests at the track was not renewed.

Morton, head of Morton Consultants Inc., of Little Rock, made the statement Monday during a news conference at his firm's offices. "Suspicious traces of chemicals" were found in 1970 in 135 winning thoroughbreds by his firm, Morton said. No action was taken. Morton said no court action was instituted because his firm could not determine whether the drugs had been administered within the period in which drugs are barred by regulations.

Newcomb and Doug Davis Jr. of Versailles, Ky., a leading owner-trainer at Oaklawn, denied Morton's allegations at a news conference Tuesday.

"Drugging went out with high-button shoes and nickel cigars," Davis said.

Morton conducted drug tests at Southland Greyhound Park in West Memphis and at Oaklawn during parts of 1969 and 1970. A Memphis firm now has the contract for tests.

Newcomb said the commission decided not to renew Morton's contract after six urine samples from dogs raced at Southland were slugged with drugs and the Morton firm did not find the irregularities.

problem is just a broken pipe—not a ruptured appendix." "You can forget about that flooded basement I phoned you about a week or so ago, Joe. I decided it would be cheaper in the long run just to turn it into an indoor swimming pool."

"I hear your daughter is getting married, Joe. Where are you having the reception—at the Waldorf, or aboard your yacht?"

"It seems to me that lately you've spent so much time with a putter in your hands that you've forgotten how to use a wrench."

"What's this about your son wanting to teach, Joe? How can he live on a college professor's measly salary after the way he's been brought up?"

"What took you so long, Joe? Why don't you quit making house calls altogether, and have your customers bring their stopped-up kitchen sinks to your office for diagnosis?"

FILIBUSTER (From Page One)

Nobody, including the 38 sponsors of that petition, expects it to succeed. But Sen. Mike Mansfield, the majority leader and a proponent of the rules change, said there will be continued attempts to limit the debate, and one of them may gain the two-thirds vote necessary to stop the talk.

At issue is a rules change sponsored by 51 senators, under which a three-fifths vote would be sufficient to limit debate.

Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, are the chief sponsors of the rules proposal, which got a boost Friday when the White House issued a cautious endorsement of their campaign.

Late session filibusters last year blocked action on Nixon's Social Security, trade and welfare reform proposals in the 91st Congress.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler noted the President has said "it was unfortunate that procedural delays stalled the important legislation before the Congress."

How long the current stall will last is, at the moment, an open question, and one that won't really make much difference until legislation begins to flow from committees onto the Senate floor.

facturers in New York. Still, those statements gave no hint Nixon was considering such a drastic step as a wage and price freeze, an action usually confined to times of war or runaway inflation.

A step most frequently mentioned in the industry as easing the situation is repeal or suspension of the Davis-Bacon law which establishes union rates on federal construction projects.

It is also a move that Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, suggested in December.

But the President said Jan. 18 he was not prepared to take such actions as putting price ceilings on federal construction projects or seeking suspension of the Davis-Bacon act.

Not until the present has there been any suggestion the President was considering using the power that Congress granted him to impose a wage and price freeze generally and on selected industries.

But one backer of that legislation, Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said last week: "The President has said before there were some things he would never, never do—and now he is doing them."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

DO GENTLEMEN PREFER YOUNGER WOMEN?

Dear Helen: Would you please ask your male readers if they all prefer younger women? My father ran off with a girl of 23 when I was in my early teens. My mother never got over it.

Now my husband is nearing 40 and I worry. I feel so OLD. I'm almost 36. How could any man be true with so many young things around?

Don't tell me to see a counselor. I did and now I'm all the more frantic. I hear he's having an affair with his young secretary. —W.X.

Dear W.: Stop brooding over the past or you may bring on a replay.

The 30s can be the best years of your life if you keep your sense of worth, your sense of humor — and your figure. Concentrate on being the "perfect older woman" and you'll have no trouble with the young things — at least no trouble you aren't able to handle. —H.

Dear Helen: This young couple comes to church dressed in "his and her" pants suits. They aren't quite hippie-ish, but really, Helen, is church the place for women in pants? —LONG-TIME MEMBER

Church is the place for anyone who wants to worship. Not to be disrespectful, but did Jesus ever win an award for "best dressed man?" —H.

Dear Helen: In our Civil Service, we are rated by our examination grades, and advance accordingly. Veterans — almost always men — are given five points preference, which often puts them higher on the list than women who may be as well or better qualified for the job.

Here's one for Women's Lib, Helen. How about giving wives and mothers five points preference, too? We've been through just as much of a battle! —DISCRIMINATEE

Dear D.: Vietnam veterans may disagree, but — Women's Lib: Have at it anyway. —H.

Thank you for suggesting that your readers write to General Mills asking that the company resume its offer to redeem Betty Crocker coupons for life-saving hospital equipment.

We understand the decision may be changed, if enough requests pour in — enough to counteract the scattered charges that General Mills was "profiteering from misfortune and playing on public sympathy."

It seems a terrible shame that many hospitals and clinics will not get needed equipment (kidney machines, heart monitoring devices, etc. which could save human life) because a few people complained. The May 31st cut-off date doesn't give time enough for collections. It takes 600,000 coupons for one kidney machine.

How typical, not only of big organizations, but everyone: One slam can cancel out a hundred compliments! Do hope everyone writes! —COUPON COLLECTOR

Dear C.C.: So do! To make it easier, here is the address: General Mills, Inc., Club Plan, Box 1300, Minneapolis, Minnesota, 55460 —H.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Everglades," NBC's treatment of that imperiled aquatic world was a nature-lover's and conservationist's dream program Tuesday night.

Much of the program was a leisurely and beautifully filmed inspection of the flora and fauna of the great natural park, from the tiny mosquito larvae to the big blue heron and alligator. It was a vivid way to demonstrate the importance of protecting all the links in the vital food chain by which the creatures survive and multiply.

Hugh Downs' quiet narration insistently pointed to the fragility of the system of survival—how the land must alternately be flooded and dried out and how dependant survival now is on man.

Much of the same material was covered and the same points made in Arthur Godfrey's recent program about the Everglades on ABC. Both emphasized the danger of pollution, from raw sewage, factory wastes, agricultural spraying, construction of homes, roads and jet ports.

As in other documentaries based on ecology, the program made a point of "death without destruction," this time showing a cottonmouth snake, hunting for food, striking at a squirrel and a hungry alligator snapping up a young raccoon which lost its grip on a branch—unpleasant viewing but essential in presenting a realistic picture of that all-important food chain.

"Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring," ABC's "Movie of the Week" was a devastating indictment, visually interesting and perhaps was helpful in understanding the unbridgeable gap between youth and age. It was the story of a girl, running away from an unsympathetic family, who becomes involved in the hippie world of drugs and irresponsibility. Returning home after a bad experience, she finds her parent's middle-class world still unbearable—and a younger sister on drugs. There was a particularly lethal portrayal of a boozing adult party, balanced by some grisly scenes of drug-distorted frolics among the hippies.

Fine performances were turned in by Sally Field as the disturbed, searching girl, and Lane Bradbury as her unhappy sister, Jackie Cooper and Eleanor Parker were excellent as the excitable, self-centered parents. It was a story told from one point of view—the girl's. Even if one disagreed with its bias, it made its point and carried a strong punch.

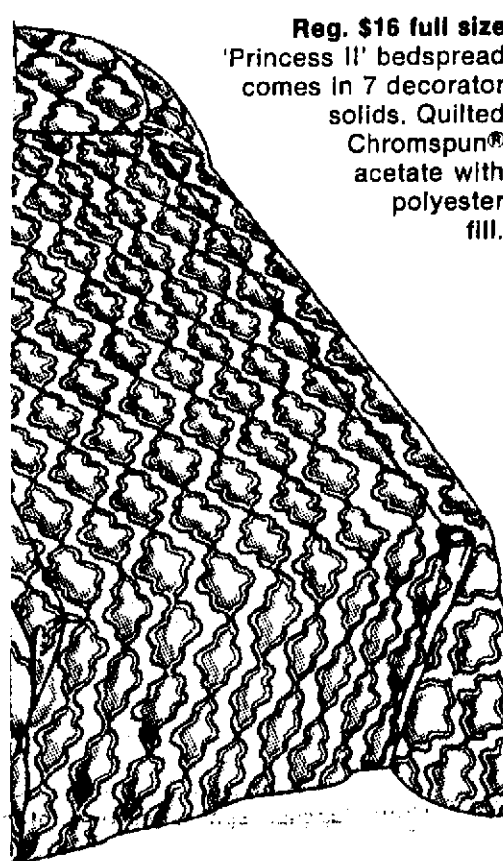

CBS began a two-part series documenting the changing character of the war in Indochina—the shift to Laos and Cambodia at a time when the United States in winding down its involvement in South Vietnam.

Charles Collingwood presided over what was essentially a briefing on the situation. There were interviews with advocates and critics of administration policy.

Dashing and daring—yet graceful and flattering, this weather-resistant all wool ombre poncho is knitted on circular needles.

You knit an easy rib pattern, change to No. 10 dp needles, and eventually work the entire poncho on 29-inch circular needles.

The result is an unusual, versatile ombre striped poncho that's right over pants or skirts. The stripes meet and match both front and back, exactly as they should in a good garment. (This custom touch is costly, when you buy it, of course.) Shoulders are gently shaped, worked from the neckline down. The yarn is as unique as the garment itself, and is part of the poncho's all-weather versatility. It's Reynolds Lopi yarn, from Iceland, home of striking and unusual woolsens.

Undyed, the yarn colors are completely natural, which create the unusual shadow or graduated color effect. The wool, sheared from Norwegian sheep bred with Shetland Island sheep, is wonderfully soft to the hand, yet is rain- and snow-proof. That's because throughout the processing of the raw wool, the natural weather-resistant qualities are not removed.

Size is no problem, because one size fits everyone. For clear, easy-to-follow directions for your ombre poncho, just send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, c/o your local newspaper, Radio City Station, Box 503, New York, N.Y. 10021. ## Bobkittens Win Over Arkadelphia

By BILL MOORE

Star Sports Writer

Sometimes the press does work. Such was the case last night.

After trailing for three quarters in the junior boys district tournament, the Hope Bobkittens began to press in the fourth period and ended up with a 42-37 victory over the Arkadelphia Beavers.

Hope started out quickly, taking a 4-0 lead on field goals by Marshall Scott and Jimmy Smith, but a cold streak left the Kittens trailing, 8-4, with 3:04 left in the period.

Three more points, all by Hope, left the Kittens trailing at the end of the quarter, 8-7.

With the second period well underway, Scott hit the go ahead basket for a few minutes, but after the lead changed hands five times, the Beavers hit four straight points, two each by Gary Benson and Lynn Hill, to take a 17-13, halftime stretch.

Unable to hit any points in third period until Bud Martin sank a free throw with 3:42 left, Hope trailed, 21-14.

Points by Smith and David Huddleston were all the Kittens could hit in the remainder of the period and the Bobkittens trailed, 31-20, entering the last period of play.

Now, getting the tipoff, things began to happen.

After Ricky Trotter opened the scoring with a free throw, Scott hit two baskets and Rhodes got one to pull Hope within four, 31-27, with 4:43 left.

After a timeout, Trotter took a stolen ball in for a layup and with Rhodes and Smith combining points, Hope had knotted the score at 35 all with 1:01 left to play.

With a wild last minute splurge Hope outscored the Beavers, 7-2, for the margin of victory.

Smith's go-ahead free throw with Martin's layup gave the Kittens a three point lead, and after Smith traded goals with Joey Golden, Rhodes hit two free shots for the final points.

Smith led all scorers with 15 points, while Scott and Rhodes had eight each, Huddleston and Trotter each had four, and Martin scored three. Hill led Arkadelphia with 10.

Tonight the Kittens return to Magnolia to play the Fairview Cardinals, while in the senior girls district tournament, the Ladycats will travel to DeQueen for a battle with Stamps at 7 o'clock.

Basketball Game Ends, Score 7 to 4

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"If I did this in Nashville, they'd run me outa town," Ed Martin grinned.

The fact that his Tennessee State basketball team beat Oglethorpe Tuesday night wasn't enough to raise any eyebrows. The Tigers, ranked sixth in The Associated Press College Division poll have won all but one of 14 games this season.

But 7-4?

"I kept reading in the papers where Tommy Norwood was encouraging people to come out and watch us play," Martin said of the Oglethorpe coach. "Then he wouldn't let us."

It was believed to be the lowest scoring collegiate game in modern history, the result of Oglethorpe's deliberate deep-freeze.

It was an attempt to prevent a repeat of the laughter earlier this year when the Tigers demolished Oglethorpe 82-43—and Norwood was amazed that he nearly pulled it off.

"I was flabbergasted," he said. "They didn't come out to get us."

In Tuesday night's more conventional games, Ohio State, rated No. 20 in the major college poll, rallied to beat Wisconsin 79-71, Texas Tech ran away from Texas 70-55, Purdue nipped Illinois 73-70, Indiana routed Michigan State 90-76, Duke coasted by Davidson 64-55 and Georgetown edged Boston College 67-66.

Tennessee State "raced" to a 2-0 lead in the opening seconds on Lloyd Neal's basket, then sat back while Oglethorpe played slowdown for nearly 16 minutes before a bad pass gave the Tigers the ball which Ron Dorsey converted into a 4-0 halftime lead.

"Talk about cold—this was a deep, deep freeze," the Tennessee State coach said. "I'll tell you, there was a lot of ice out there ... but when we got those four points, I knew the pressure was on them. So we just sat back and waited."

The Atlanta school took the second-half tip-off and held the ball for nearly 17 minutes before Terry Shell's field goal cut the Tigers' lead in half. But three Tennessee State free throws in the closing minutes wrapped it up while Oglethorpe managed only a basket by Larry Walker.

"This is the first time I've been involved in a game like this," Martin said—but Norwood is no stranger to such goings on. He played for Oglethorpe when the team beat Jacksonville 30-14—after going in the dressing room at halftime with a scoreless tie.

Wisconsin surprised Ohio State by taking a 41-39 halftime lead. Then, after the Badgers widened the margin to 54-45, Allen Hornyak went to work, hitting 17 of his game-high 26 points as the Buckeyes charged back.

Texas Tech and Texas were deadlocked 49-49 midway in the second half before the Longhorns fell apart, failing to score for nearly nine minutes as Tech ran up a 62-49 lead. Greg Lowry of the Red Raiders and Jimmy Blacklock of Texas shared scoring honors with 20 apiece.

Purdue's Dennis Gamauf put the Boilermakers ahead of Illinois to stay 69-68 with a basket in the fading minutes, then sealed the triumph with four free throws.

Indiana used a zone press on defense to break Michigan State's slowdown offense and George McGinnis' 37 points to run away from the Spartans.

Davidson led Duke 36-35 early in the second half before the Blue Devils hit nine consecutive points to give Coach Bucky Waters his 100th career victory.

Boston College held a slim lead before Mike Laughna, the game's top scorer with 25 points, hit a free throw to put Georgetown on top at 69-59. The Hoyas clinched the victory with free throws by Ed McNamara and Dick Weber in the final 14 seconds.

Four Periods Too Many for Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new Buffalo Braves battled the powerful Milwaukee Bucks almost on even terms for three quarters. But the rules call for four periods and that was one too many for the Braves.

The Braves trailed only 96-93 after three quarters of their National Basketball Association game Tuesday night, but they lost 135-103 as they scored only 10 points in the final period and were outscored 21-2 by the Bucks in the closing minutes.

Lew Alcindor led Milwaukee with 38 points, four more than Buffalo's Donnie May. In other NBA action Los Angeles beat the New York Knicks 130-115, Cincinnati topped Portland 109-102, Chicago bombed Atlanta 118-102, Detroit drubbed Baltimore 110-95 and Phoenix edged Boston 119-116 in a day game.

Denver outlasted Memphis 125-120 in the only American Basketball Association game.

The Lakers, behind at the half 57-54, went on a 21-4 spree at the end of the third period and broke loose on a 21-6 blitz early in the last period, to beat the Knicks. Jerry West led the attack with 31 points, hitting seven baskets in a row in the third period.

Willis Reed, returning to the line-up after a two-game layoff because of his knee trouble, paced the Knicks with 23 points.

Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks scored the 10,000th point of his NBA career on a short jumper with eight minutes left. The game was stopped and Elgin Baylor of the Lakers presented him with the ball.

Cincinnati snapped a seven-game losing streak and broke Portland's five-game winning string. Tom Van Arsdale topped the Royals with 29 points while Geoff Petrie was high for the Trail Blazers with 31.

Ralston Seeks to Snap String by Laver

NEW YORK (AP) — Dennis Ralston, who has beaten Rod Laver in their last two outings, will seek to snap the 32-year-old Australian southpaw's victory string tonight in the $210,000 Tennis Champions Classic at Madison Square Garden.

Laver has won nine straight $10,000 matches in the money-laden marathon which began Jan. 2 and ends March 18.

"Anytime you play Laver, you're playing the best player in the world," said the 28-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., resident. "I know I've got to be good to beat him but if I play well and lose that's too bad."

Ralston, who says he's playing as well as he ever has, knocked off the red-haired Aussie in the U.S. Open last September and in the finals of the Pacific Championships last March. But that doesn't bother Laver.

"I feel pretty good about playing Dennis," he said. "Every match is a different one and the Open wasn't a destructive defeat."

Laver's earlier conquests in the classic included two victories each over Arthur Ashe and Tom Okker and one each over Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson, Tony Roche, Roger Taylor and John Newcombe.

But Newcombe, a 26-year-old fellow Australian, tripped him 7-6, 7-6, 6-4, in the final of the Philadelphia International Indoor Tournament Sunday, ending his over-all victory string at 17.

Not Easy to Name a Race Horse

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Naming a thoroughbred race horse is no easy task.

First, you eliminate the names of famous horses commercial names and the name of any horse who has not been dead 20 years. In addition, written permission is needed to use the name of an individual.

"I submitted names for one horse 13 times before Laver got one approved," said Doug Davis Jr., the leading trainer at Oaklawn Park the past two years. "We finally named him '13 times.'"

Davis had similar problems with another horse and gave up after corresponding repeatedly with the clearing house in New York.

"I finally asked the owner to help me and she named it after me — Late Again," he said. In his barn, Davis has a Bosum-Hard Cider filly which he has named Applejackie.

"We were talking about a name for the horse and somebody asked me what hard cider was," Davis said.

"Brandy," Davis replied. "Wrong, it's applejack." "So, we named her Applejackie because she's a filly," Davis said.

SPORT SHORTS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Officials of the Cape-town-Rio regatta were still waiting today for the balance of competitors to complete the race.

Only 16 boats have crossed the finish line so far in the regatta which was won by the South African sloop Albatross. Brazilian Air Force planes reported Tuesday sighting another South African sloop, the Sprinter, about 200 miles northeast of Rio.

SCOTLAND'S SECRET revealed, or youthful curiosity satisfied. Out-of-season shot, for a change of pace, as caught at the Thousand Islands International Highland Games, annual event at the St. Lawrence meeting point of the United States and Canada.

Spaniel Is Best Dog in the Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The next time Dr. Milton E. Prickett brings his pet dog to a veterinary science class at the University of Kentucky, his students probably will gape in awe. "Yes," said Dr. Prickett today, "I bring D.J. to class once in a while with me."

Dr. Prickett, a 40-year-old assistant professor of veterinary science at the university, was referring to Ch. Chino's Adamant James, an English springer spaniel, who captured dogdom's most important championship—best-in-show at the Westminster Kennel Club event in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

"I call him D.J.," said Dr. Prickett, whose wife also is a veterinarian. "He sleeps under my desk and I received him as a present from my wife and three children two years ago."

Clint Harris handled D.J. in the show, just as he has through most of the dog's career. "I was a little nervous," said Harris. "He fell on the mat during the sporting group judging and I was fearful that his knee would tighten up."

But it didn't and the judge of the final, O.C. Harriman of Pebble Beach, Calif., required only 13 minutes to make up his mind. There is no second place in the final judging. The pooch wins it all or nothing.

"The English springer spaniel is a nearly perfect dog," said Harriman. "I'd love to take him home with me. He is a wonderful dog in every way. It was a lovely class."

D.J. was not exactly an outsider considering the fact that he took three bests on the recent Florida circuit and beat out more than 3,000 rivals in the Philadelphia Kennel Club Show two months ago.

Yet many of the experts thought that the favorite's role would go to the Norwegian elkhound Ch. Vin Melca's Vagabond, owned and handled by Patricia V. Craige of Monterey, Calif., the hound winner.

Vagabond was the top winning dog in the country last year and going into the 95th edition of Westminster, had shown no signs of slipping. Harriman gave him some attention, but he couldn't take his eyes off D.J.

The others in the final were: Ch. Pavo de la Steingasse, a standard poodle owned by Margaret S. Smith of Dallas, the working group victor.

Ch. O'Connell Kerry Oaks, a Kerry blue sent in by Florence Coe of Atherton, Calif., the terrier winner.

Ch. Duke's Lil Red Baron O'kala, a Pomeranian entered by Mrs. Joyce Graves of Cypress, Tex., who triumphed in the top group.

Ch. Tally-Ho Tiffany, a miniature poodle sent in by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dale of Calabasas, Calif., the nonsporting winner.

Exhilarating Winner as Expected

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Exhilarating, owned by Ruth Ballis and ridden by jockey Lonnie Ray, beat a field of 11 other 3 and 4-year-old fillies Tuesday to win the $7,500 Oaklawn Park feature race.

With clear weather and a fast track, the 4-year-old J. A. Bordonaro-trained filly ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:06.

Exhilarating, an 8-5 choice, returned mutuels of $5.20, $4.00 and $3.40. Long-shot Buckeye, ridden by Danny Whited, finished second paying $18.60 and $9.80 and Lapel Dutchess with Sidney Lejeune aboard returned $5.00 to show.

At the half-mile mark, Exhilarating was nestled in seventh place, but as the field entered the stretch Ray turned on the speed and came on strong from the outside to beat Buckeye by almost a length in the final strides.

Trainer Doug Davis Jr. and jockey J. L. Lively combined for the meeting's first trainer-jockey daily double. The price, however, was the shortest in many years — $9.60.

Davis' winning horse in the first race, Hemphens Song, a 2-year-old filly, won by 10 lengths and equalled the Oaklawn track record for the 3 furlongs in 33.2-5 seconds. The record was set on March 7, 1967 by Gap Whip.

Davis' second-race winner was Saxy Mac. The numbers were 1 and 5.

Jockey W. J. Layland posted a winning double aboard Gracioso in the sixth and Wa-Wa Cessie in the eighth.

The Tuesday crowd of 8,020 wagered $575,322.

Today's $8,500 6 furlong featured allowance event is headed by a Claiborne Farm entry of two of its promising 3-year-old colts, Armor and Wharf, each to carry 115 pounds. Jockey Don Brumfield has drawn the assignment on one of the colts, but no jockey had been named for the other.

Other contenders in the field of 11 include Bixa (110), Barblon Streak (115), Bluemedal (118), Hot Ginger (110), Laughing Dancer (115), Sleeping Top (115), Pelani (110), Oil Lease (112) and White Man (118).

Killebrew Contract Is for $100,000

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Now that Harmon Killebrew is the first $100,000 Minnesota Twin, the 34-year-old slugger has his big bat pointed to a 50-homer season in 1971 and No. 500.

Killebrew agreed to a $100,000 contract Tuesday with Calvin Griffith, Twins president and general manager.

"I just hope to play as many games as possible," Killebrew said. "I'd like to hit 50 home runs some year."

With 50 homers, Killebrew will move way up on the all-time home run list. The 5-foot-11, 215-pounder has never hit the 50 figure in a season.

Killebrew will start 1971 with 487 homers—six behind Lou Gehrig. He could pass Mel Ott at 511, Eddie Mathews, 513, and Ted Williams, 521.

Putting on Moon Would Be Trouble

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Driving a golf ball on the moon would be very exhilarating but putting would drive you crazy, the former administrator of the national Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

"There would be a lot of seven and eight-putt greens and no green to putt on," Dr. Thomas Paine added. "It would be almost impossible to sink a putt on the moon. It would be like putting underwater."

Dr. Paine described possible golf on the moon after receiving a trophy from the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association in the name of astronaut Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., the first man to hit a golf ball on the lunar surface.

Shepard, in quarantine, was unable to accept the award in person.

The hastily conceived award was called the "Mulligan Trophy," named for the practice common to duffers taking a second shot off the tee after muffing the first.

Shepard, using a six-iron head attached to one of his craft's instruments, took two swings on the moon and commented afterwards: "It goes miles and miles."

Dr. Paine, who oversaw all manned flights to the moon prior to leaving NASA last year for a vice presidency with General Electric, said Shepard did not exaggerate too much.

"You can figure that the ball will travel six times as far as it would on Earth because the gravity is one-sixth that of the gravity on this planet," the aeronautics expert explained. "The ball would fly straight and far and it would be impossible to slice or hook because there is no resistance."

"Also, the surface of the moon is like small beads. The ball, once it has landed, would hit and bounce for many more yards, so one can get a great deal of distance."

This, however, would be all the fun that a golfer could derive from an excursion to the moon, Paine said.

"When you start to putt, the ball would do all sorts of crazy things and likely would skid and go right past the hole. It would take a lot of shots to sink it," he added.

Phil Strubing, president of the U.S. Golf Association, announced at the dinner he was immediately suspending Shepard from amateur golf.

"Shepard said he was given three golf balls by his club back in Houston," Strubing said. "That's a violation of the rules. That makes him a professional."

And the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, militant guardian of the sport, said Shepard should be penalized for not replacing his divot.

"This is a violation of ethics," the R and A insisted.

But it was Bob Hope, the comedian, golfer and golf promoter, who summed up the meaning of Shepard's feat to the average Earthbound duffer.

"I always wondered what was wrong with my golf," Hope said. "Now I know—it's gravity!"

Lively With Eight Lead at Oaklawn

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — J. L. Lively, who had ridden eight winners since the beginning of the current meet at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, is the leading jockey so far during the meet.

Larry Snyder, who was injured Saturday and has not ridden since then, is second with seven winners and Bobby Salas is third with six winners.

James McKnight, Don Brumfield and Steve Richie have all ridden five winners since the beginning of the meet on Feb. 5.

Claims Marines Opened Fire on Own Men

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Globe says a U.S. Marine patrol released five wanted American servicemen, watched them jog out into a small field and then opened fire on them in Vietnam in 1969.

The newspaper based its story on what it said was a stipulation of facts agreed to by prosecution and defense at a court-martial of Marine Pvt. Michael D. Maynard, 21, of Jordan, Utah, in September 1969 at Da Nang.

The report in Monday's editions, said four escapees from the Marine brig at Da Nang and one AWOL Marine were heading towards a wooden house they shared with two Vietnamese girls when they ran into the patrol April 29, 1969.

Maynard, now jailed at the Portsmouth, N.H., naval brig, was quoted by the newspaper as saying he and the others were recognized as fugitives and the patrol demanded their weapons.

He said the two groups faced each other with weapons ready but the fugitives gave up their guns after the patrol sergeant promised he would let them go, the newspaper's account said.

"So we turned around and took off, not running, you know what I mean, kind of jogging,

Ike's Plan for Italy Overruled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill overruled a World War II suggestion by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that Italy be given peace with honor in return for surrender, secret wartime documents have disclosed.

The documents, made public by the State Department Monday, also show: —Roosevelt was sharply critical of French Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

—The United States suggested Britain cut its tank production and order more American tanks.

—U.S. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson accused the British of being only lukewarm on the planned D-Day invasion of Europe across the English Channel.

The documents show Eisenhower, then commander in chief of Allied Forces, proposed before the allied landing that Italy be promised a peace with honor should she surrender. He made the proposal in a May 17, 1943, letter to the combined chiefs of staff.

Roosevelt and Churchill disagreed, however, and sent a telegram to Eisenhower saying, "Most certainly we cannot tell the Italians that if they cease hostilities they will have a peace with honor. We cannot get away from unconditional surrender."

The documents also contain a letter from Roosevelt to Churchill written May 8, 1943, saying, "I do not know what to do with de Gaulle. Possibly you would like to make him governor of Madagascar."

Roosevelt's letter also accused de Gaulle, later to become president of France, of stirring up trouble in Algiers.

On the issue of tanks, W. Averell Harriman, Roosevelt's personal representative, wrote Churchill that unless the British bought American tanks, "thousands of men will be thrown out of work ... and politically it will be difficult for the President to explain ..."

Stimson's letter to Roosevelt, dated Aug. 10, 1943, said of the British support of the D-Day invasion: "Though they have rendered lip service to the operation, their hearts are not with it."

Earlier this year the league, accusing the Soviet Union of mistreating its Jewish citizens, had staged a number of such incidents, but Kahane had called a one-month moratorium.

"We saw what happened when we called a truce for a month," he said after his arrest Monday on complaint by Vladimir Fedorov. "Everything died." He was ordered to appear in court March 3.

because you know we thought we were free. "We got about 20 yards away and they opened up," he was quoted as saying.

The Globe said one man died. The survivors reportedly were court-martialed on mutiny and a variety of other charges.

1,000 Houses Condemned by Quake

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than 1,000 dwellings have been condemned because of earthquake damage and the occupants ordered to other shelter as aftershocks from the big tremor of a week ago further rattled nerves.

The aftershocks, four of which rumbled through the Los Angeles area Monday, have caused no new damage, authorities said. The latest shocks, from 3.5 to 3.9 magnitude on the Richter scale, were felt mainly in the San Fernando Valley. The quake itself was 6.6 on the scale.

Six emergency Red Cross centers were helping evacuees find shelter after they left their homes or apartments in the valley 10 miles north of downtown Los Angeles.

The Van Norman Dam in the north section of the valley continued to hold. It was badly cracked by the big quake, but the water level was lowered to reduce pressure on the dam.

Fifty city building inspectors surveyed damage Monday from the quake that killed 62 persons, injured more than 1,000 and caused damage estimated as high as $1 billion.

Hugh Gillis, who is in charge of Red Cross shelter operations, said the shelters were "one-stop service centers" where families gather before moving in with friends or receiving money for a week's supply of food and motel or hotel bills.

Police warned residents whose homes have yet to be looked over to watch out for persons posing as building inspectors. They said there were reports of imposters charging $15 to $20 fees. The city's inspectors do not charge for the service.

Most dwellings designated as unsafe will have to be demolished, said Harold L. Manley of the city Department of Building and Public Safety.

BARBS

They've invented a computerized drink-mixer for bars, but unless it's wired to listen to a fellow's troubles it's going to be a flop.

The pot at the end of the rainbow usually proves to be the product of middle age.

The first thing to take for that tired, all-dragged-out feeling is a lot less nonprofessional advice.

Even though he has 20-20 vision, an egotist is in need of "I" treatment.

Penn Central Deal May Get a Hearing

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Senate Commerce Committee has called for immediate hearings into Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans' interest in a major Penn Central subsidiary and his role in government efforts to shore up the failing railroad.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., urged convening of the committee "at the earliest possible date to hear Secretary Stans' explanation of matters which on their face seem to indicate a strong possibility of impropriety."

Hartke is third-ranking Democrat on the committee which approved Stans' cabinet appointment in January 1969.

Hartke commented in a statement following disclosures by The Associated Press that Stans owned $318,000 worth of stock in Great Southwest Corp. on June 12, 1970, at the time his department was involved in administration plans to grant Penn Central $200 million in federal loan guarantees.

The railroad, which owns 90 per cent of Great Southwest, filed for reorganization under the bankruptcy act after the administration decided against the loan guarantees.

"The facts of the matter appear to be these," Hartke said. "At the time of his confirmation hearings Mr. Stans held either personally or in partnership approximately 38,000 shares of stock in Great Southwest ... but he did not reveal these holdings in a financial statement he submitted to the committee."

At the same time, Hartke said, "Mr. Stans assured us that he would put all of his holdings into a so-called blind trust—that is, a trust the transactions and value of which he would have no knowledge."

"Apparently, however, that blind trust had eyes, for Secretary Stans revealed, no doubt inadvertently, to an Associated Press reporter knowledge of transactions that occurred nine months later," Hartke said.

The senator noted the value of Stans' investment in Great Southwest had gone from $570,000 in January 1969 to $318,000 in June 1970 and now—if he still holds the shares—to about $114,000.

It could not be learned whether Stans still has an interest in Great Southwest, a Texas real estate firm.

Although at one point Stans indicated precise knowledge of the number of shares distributed to his blind trust, he said at another point in an interview conducted with written questions and answers that he didn't know what was in the trust.

"It is impossible to escape the conclusion," Hartke said, "that, had the administration succeeded in carrying through the Defense Act loan (guarantees) to

Barber Union Official Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

has been indicted along the union's president on charges of kickback conspiracy.

The pension fund involved in complex case has ties to one the biggest personal bankruptcy act cases ever filed, to other financial scandals and ailed tax evader Bobby Bak-and the nearly 60,000 barbers face forecasts that they they will get little or none of retirement income they are promised. Both government and private studies say fund will go broke as pressently constituted.

The 36-count indictment was turned Tuesday by a federal and jury in Chicago and announced by the Justice Department in Washington. It named:

—Thomas A. Shaheen Jr., 38, pension fund's onetime investment consultant who now lives in London, England.

—Joseph De Paola, Indianapolis, president of the Journe-men Barbers, Hairdressers,

Cosmetologists and Proprietors

International Union of America and chairman of its pension fund.

—Max Block Jr., a New York

attorney who worked with Shaheen and Block.

The indictment charged all with conspiring to get kick-backs, fees and commissions from a California land development firm in connection with a loan from the pension fund. It also charged Shaheen, Block and De Paola with conspiring to pay off De Paola in connection with fund loans and charged De

Paola with soliciting and receiving $29,000 in fees, kickbacks and commissions.

Shaheen also was charged with getting from the California firm $112,597 in fees and commissions, $25,000 in negotiable

notes, two consultant agreements worth $144,000 and 100 acres of land in order to influence his actions as the fund's divisor.

The fund, which once totaled

$21 million, made nearly $12 million in mortgage loans during the period Shaheen advised

it. Some $7 million of these became loans, some of them to Winthrop Lawrence Corp. or its subsidiaries.

Winthrop Lawrence, named as a co-conspirator in the case, at the time was half-owned by

Columbia Financial Corp. and half-owned by Lamont du Pont

Copeland Jr., son of the board chairman of the giant DuPont

Corp.

Copeland Jr. filed last year for reorganization of his financial affairs under the bankruptcy act, listing debts of about $60 million and assets of less than half that total. Soon after,

Winthrop Lawrence also filed for reorganization.

Justice Department sources said that based on assurances from Shaheen's attorney, F. Lee

Bailey, that Shaheen would be on hand for trial, no formal extradition proceedings were presently planned.

The two other financial scandals linked to Barbers fund loans involve insurance companies—Prudence Mutual Casualty Co. of Chicago and Community National Life Insurance Co.

of Tulsa, Okla. Both firms failed

under circumstances that brought investigations.

In mid-1970, fulfilling a commitment made previously, the fund made a $200,000 second

Last Quake a Bonanza to Scientists

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last week's devastating California earthquake is becoming a scientific bonanza to researchers seeking to predict, prevent or lessen damage from future, potentially more deadly temblors.

Scientists say no other earthquake was so well measured by batteries of instruments as the Feb. 9 jolt in the San Fernando Valley northwest of Los Angeles that caused 64 deaths and damage estimated at up to $1 billion.

"This is by far the most complete coverage ever obtained of an earthquake," said Dr. Donald E. Hudson, an earthquake engineer at the California Institute of Technology, where some of the world's pioneering earthquake research has been conducted.

"Instruments were closer to the real center than we've ever had before."

The implications are important for earthquake-prone areas of the world, especially California, where experts agree an eventual shaking more massive than the Feb. 9 temblor is inevitable.

Said Dr. George W. Housner, a Cal Tech colleague of Hudson: "All the information on ground shaking that we obtained from the instruments will enable us to see how the designs of future buildings should be made. By examining the buildings that survived, both the damaged and undamaged, we will have a much greater understanding of the behavior of buildings under strong shaking."

Seismologists also are hoping careful analysis of recordings of the initial quake and dozens of aftershock will add to their knowledge of the complex mechanism that triggers an earthquake.

They want to know how and why elastic forces build up between two chunks of the earth's crust along a crack, or fault, and then suddenly are relieved, sending waves of energy through the crust to bring down buildings and collapse bridges.

They hope the data will yield new clues on how to predict when the crust will shear and how the energy could be released slowly and safely.

"You might compare it to an autopsy," said Richard Maley of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration seismological field survey.

"We can't do anything now for what's happened, but we can learn for the future."

seille burst into the Seals' zone and lifted a backhander past Smith. Christ Worthy replaced Smith after that and surrendered goals by Bill Sutherland in the second period and Frank Huck in the third.

Gary Jarrett's third period goal deprived goalie Glenn Hall of his 90th career shutout.

Vancouver, triggered by Rosaire Paiement's three goals, snapped Boston's 12-game unbeaten streak. Paiement completed his hat trick with the tie-breaking goal at 19:13 of the final period.

The victory enabled the Canucks to move out of the East Division cellar, one point out of fifth place. The first-place Bruins remained nine points ahead of idle New York.

DWARFED by huge South Vietnamese 155mm guns, two Cambodian soldiers prepare to take up positions in an area around Phnom Penh.

tax additionally to newspaper, radio, television and billboard advertising. Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock said the amendment was designed to kill the bill, a charge that Thompson denied.

He said he was trying to produce more revenue for the state. If the legislature extends the sales tax to services such as shoe repair, he said, it can certainly tax advertising. He estimated that the amendment would provide an additional $1 million to $1.5 million a year.

Rep. Jimmie Don McKissack of Star City said advertising should be taxed because it was an "investment" designed to produce a profit.

The House voted 84-9 to approve a bill by Sen. Jim Fowler of Little Rock to permit mobile homes that are 14 feet wide to be moved on the state's highways. The bill was sent back to the Senate after passage for concurrence in a House amendment.

State law now prohibits trailers more than 12 feet wide from being moved on the highways. The House passed on a vote of 91-0 an administration bill to amend the state securities law.

Securities Commissioner Bill Sherman told the House the bill was "clean-up legislation."

Included among the provisions is an increase from $25 to $50 in the minimum filing fee for securities registration statements and a reduction of the maximum fee from $1,000 to $500. The bill also would increase the penalty for violating the securities act from a maximum of three years in prison to five years.

The House voted 88-0 to approve a bill by Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. of El Dorado that would permit a state employee's contribution to the United Fund to be deducted from his payroll check, but then reconsidered and defeated the measure.

On reconsideration, the vote initially was 52-38, one more vote than necessary for passage, but three favorable votes were cast out when Rep. Charles Honey of Prescott asked that the House be polled.

Honey told the House that the bill would result in a "coercion" of state employees to contribute to the United Fund.

The House approved 52-38 a bill by Sen. Bill Walmsley of Batesville that would prohibit the distribution of simulated legal documents "for the purpose of obtaining anything of value," but then voted 62-30 to recall the measure from the Senate, where it had been sent after passage.

Rep. John Plegge of Little Rock, a proponent of the bill, said the measure was needed to stop "shady" collection agencies from sending debtors letters that appear to be court summonses.

The House approved a Senate bill to grant public school teachers six days of sick leave, after taking out language that would have given 10 days of sick leave.

In other actions, the Senate: —Approved 26-6 and sent to Bumpers a bill to repeal a law under which the state collected about $600,000 annually for gasoline inspections the state did not make. The law had been on the books since 1941.

—Approved 34-0 and sent to the House an administration bill to appropriate $29,000 for tourist information centers at Dora and West Memphis.

—Approved 31-0 and sent to Bumpers a bill to impose a fine of up to $5,000 and prison term of up to five years for persons who jump bail.

—Approved 29-0 and sent to Bumpers a bill to separate the office of collector from the office of sheriff in Crittenden County. Marion Thomas now holds both positions. He was acquitted last year of two embezzlement charges. Eight others are pending.

—Approved 33-0 and sent to Bumpers a bill changing the name of mayor's court to city court.

—Approved 29-1 and sent to Bumpers a bill to provide that the governor shall select from a list of four persons submitted by the Real Estate Association appointees to the Real Estate Commission.

The Senate also approved and sent to the governor 12 Joint Budget Committee appropriations measures previously approved by the House.

Lawmaker Gets Plenty Money for His Area

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

SMITHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rep. Joe L. Evins, a country boy who grew up to control purse strings holding more than $20 billion in federal funds, hasn't forgotten where he comes from. Neither has the U.S. government.

An Associated Press study shows federal dollars are flowing into Evins' middle Tennessee district at a rate that would nearly double the government's non-defense outlays if applied to the nation as a whole.

Evins' case illustrates an accepted fact of political life: chairmen of appropriations subcommittees are in a better position than most congressmen to help the folks back home.

As a Democrat with 24 years seniority, Evins last year headed two appropriations subcommittees handling funds for 37 federal agencies and offices. And, records show, non-defense government outlays in his district in fiscal 1969 totaled $527 million. By comparison, average non-defense outlays per congressional district that year were $313 million.

"Joe really takes care of his district," said Cookeville, Tenn., City Atty. Wes Platt Jr., who managed Evins' campaign last fall when he was re-elected with 83 per cent of the vote. "I don't know where we would be without him."

Of his constituents, Evins said: "They are a great people and they deserve all the help and assistance that's going to them."

Evins' hometown of Smithville, population 2,997, belongs with surrounding DeKalb County to the list of 150 locales in the country designated as Model Cities—an entree to special consideration when federal funds are being awarded.

Cookeville, 30 miles away and also in Evins' district, is another Model City. Its population is 14,270.

The Model City designations were made by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, one of the agencies whose appropriations are handled by an Evins' subcommittee. Another such agency, the Atomic Energy Commission, sends $300 million annually into Evins' district, which includes the AEC's massive Oak Ridge facilities.

"I've worked hard," said Evins in an interview, "and by time and effort I have come to a position where there's opportunity for service .... I haven't been provincial in my work. I'm not provincial. I've worked for programs for New York and the West and all over the nation."

Evins pointed out that in his tenure as HUD appropriations chairman "HUD has never been cut back in any of its major programs."

He cited his work in helping obtain congressional approval of President Johnson's rent-supplement program.

"He gives the impression of being just a little old country boy," said a former congressional liaison man. "But he's a bright guy and he's extremely interested in trying to fund things for a constituency a helluva lot different from Smithville, Tenn."

But Evins remains extremely interested as well in Smithville, Cookeville, Crossville, Jellico, Oneida, Tullahoma and the other cities sprinkled throughout his 21-county district.

Evins was in on the early discussions which led to formulation of the Model Cities program.

"Secretary (Robert) Weaver came by to see me and ... ask ... advice on a proposed demonstration cities program," Evins recalled.

"I told him, '... you wouldn't get far in Congress if you submitted a program for four or five cities.'"

"But if you broaden your base and include medium size cities and small cities as well as the large ones, you would have a broad base of support in Congress."

"He took the suggestion and came back with a recommendation for 75 cities...."

The Model Cities program cleared Congress in 1966, and was one reason why, in fiscal 1969, $9,886,491 was pumped into DeKalb County—or more than $850 per man, woman and child. Now bulldozers, fueled with federal dollars, are refashioning the face of Smithville and the county.

A new court house (they say in Smithville that Evins personally approved the federal-style architecture) is nearing completion a stone's throw from federally financed Congress Boulevard (which Evins had the honor of naming) and the mall-like lots where a grateful citizenry plans someday to build the Joe L. Evins Memorial Library.

Just north of town, a new air strip awaits the passing of winter for the final blacktopping. Throughout the county, sewer and water lines are being planned and built. Curbs and gutters are adding an urban look to business districts.

An ambitious road building plan is on the drawing board. New schools, community centers, health centers, public housing units are under construction. There is new industry and new hope for a population where barely half the families earn more than $3,000 a year in cash income.

The region needs development, Evins said. It needs jobs to stem chronic out migration to the industrial centers of the North.

South looked over the dummy in the most approved fashion before playing to the first trick. Then he went up with the ace of trumps, led the queen, overtook with his king and drew a third round of trumps.

After that there were several more huddles as South struggled to make his contract, but he was down one. "What were you thinking about at trick one?" asked North.

"I was trying to figure out why you hadn't bid three no-trump. There are nine to tricks," was the reply. "Too bad you didn't find out how to make 10 tricks at hearts," continued North.

"I did," said South. "But the diamonds lay wrong."

South was right but, as North pointed out, South could have made his 10th trick if he had worked on the club suit first. The club suit might not develop a trick for him, but South could still have worked on the diamonds.

At trick two South should have played a club. Suppose the defense played another trump. South would win in dummy and ruff a club in his own hand. Then he would draw the last enemy trump to leave two more trumps in his own hand.

Next he would lead a spade to dummy and ruff another club. Both opponents would follow. South would return to dummy with a second spade, ruff another club with his last trump, enter dummy with the ace of diamonds and make his contract trick with the last club. All other lines would lead to the same ending.

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

A day of confusion is upon England. After 1,200 years as the most universal unit of account, the pound sterling will give way to the decimal system.

All banks and commercial establishments have closed their accounts on the present system and now all balances are computed to a new value by a multiple factor of 2.4.

Under the new system the English penny will be worth 2.4 times its former value, with the two-pence and three-pence being rounded off to coincide with the new one-cent denomination.

This means that some commodities will find some prices up, others down. For instance, public lavatories requiring a penny to operate will henceforth be free, since the cost of replacing the locks would be prohibitive.

Coffee, which outsells tea three to one, will have its retail price rounded up while the tea drinker will find his favorite beverage less costly. All of which seems to justify many complaints by the man on the street that merchants are using the switch from a duodecimal to a decimal system as a profit-taking maneuver.

Some of the English people opposing the conversion find it easier to work in 12s than in 10s, while others favoring the change say it is just a matter of shifting the decimals around. But both sides agree that recognition of the new denominations will pose a problem for some time to come.

Denomination Identity

Being able to identify the denomination of a coin strictly by its design has been difficult at times even for some people in the United States, especially during the 17th and early 18th centuries when not all Americans and few foreigners could read or write English.

From 1793 through the first four or five years of the 1800s none of our silver pieces could be identified by an indication of their value on either surface. On some of the later larger coins the value was imprinted on the edge but this soon disappeared, leaving recognition solely to the owner's ability to judge by size.

In 1836, long after the Treasury adopted a policy of placing the denomination on the reverse field, practically all of our silver coins, with the exception of the three cent piece, began displaying the same design on their obverse. Christian Gobrecht's seated Liberty had literally taken the spotlight away from the Liberty bust.

The half-dime, dime, quarter, half-dollar and dollar all strutted the girl seated on a rock, holding a slave cap, topped staff in her left hand while holding the American shield erect with her right. For awhile she was circumscribed by a series of six-point stars and later by an inscription of the issuing authority—United States of America.

But in 1875 while the mint was getting carried away with the Liberty-seated design, Congress was similarly swayed by the obvious success of our various denominations and decided to throw in another one for good measure—the 20-cent piece.

You guessed it. The new coin carried the Liberty-seated device on the obverse with a reverse not unlike the 1875 Trade dollar. But the similarity to other coins did not end here. The new 20-cent denomination (A), while not needed on the edge, was of silver and measured 7/16-inch in diameter, which was only 1/16th-inch smaller than the 25-cent coin (B).

Eating Odd Things Is Case for Doctor

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—What would cause one to have a craving for charcoal, chalk, soft stones? Would consuming such be harmful?

Dear Reader—It depends on the age of the person. A child will eat almost anything. ONCE. Some children even pick old paint off the walls and eat it. If the paint has lead in it, this can cause lead poisoning.

An adult eating the items you mention may have some deficiency in the body. More often it is a psychological problem and should be reviewed in person with a physician.

Some people develop the habit of eating clay. It has no nutritive value. If carried to extremes, these people will develop anemia and signs of dietary deficiency.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is it true that certain foods such as milk and bread, eaten together, are injurious to a person's health? Are refined cereals, spaghetti, polished rice, white sugar, bread and mashed potatoes disease builders? I was always under the impression that the stomach could safely stand any combination of food. Can mixing foods cause slow poisoning?

There are a lot of mistaken ideas on this subject, like not eating fish and milk together. That is poppycock. You are right. Any food you can eat alone you can also eat safely with other foods. If you can't eat onions, then you can't eat them in combination with other foods as a rule. Now you can build up too high a level of certain things. For example, if you eat one food enriched with iron, then a couple more enriched with iron and finally take vitamins with iron added you can be getting too much iron (more often people don't get enough). But note that these are additives to normal food, not combinations of what nature intended man to eat.

The problem with polished rice and other grains that have had the husk removed is that they have lost a large amount of natural vitamins, particularly the B complex group, including thiamine. A diet exclusively of these products can result in disease.

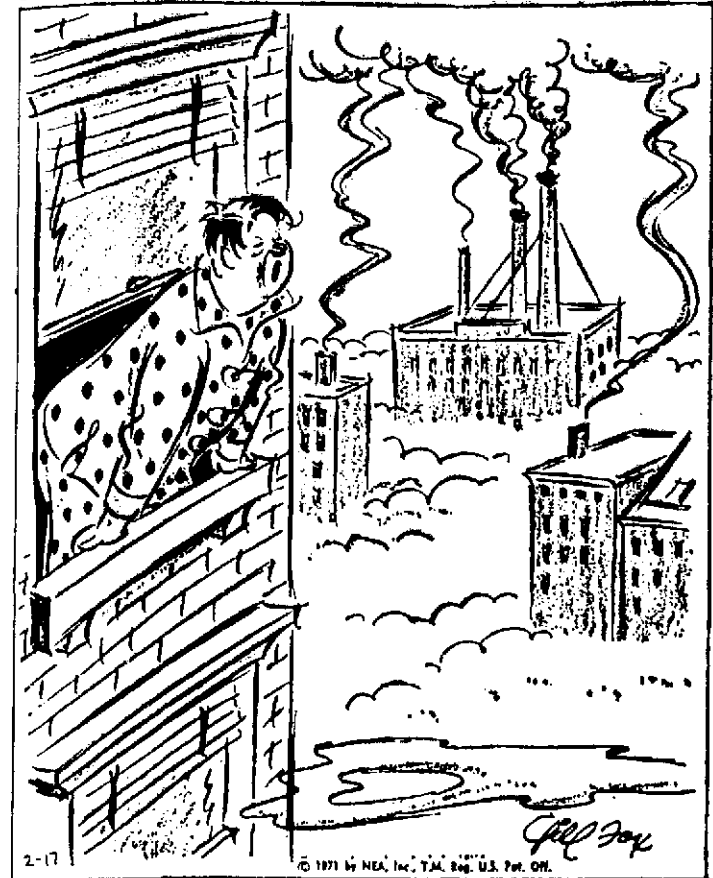

LEGAL NOTICE

The annual school election will be held by the qualified electors of the Patmos School District No. 9 of Hempstead County on Tuesday, March 9, 1971 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The electors will vote a school tax of 35 mills to be levied for general fund for the operation of schools of said district.

The polling place will be the Patmos Town Hall.
